A total of fifty (50) clients participated in this activity, with ages ranging from 16 to 63 years. All participants are recovering alcohol abusers who actively engaged in the discussion.

It was observed during this session that clients expressed a need for strong support from their families after their discharge from the rehabilitation home; they also indicated that participation in church activities could greatly contribute to relapse prevention. Most importantly, they stressed that taking personal responsibility is essential for maintaining sobriety, and they highlighted that faith in God is vital for overcoming addiction. Furthermore, obtaining employment is critical for avoiding relapse.

The team also visited Special Home in Durtlang, which accommodates children under the age of eighteen (18). During their stay at the Home, they receive education, counseling and skills development training. Currently, there are twenty-four (24) children residing there, with a total capacity of fifty (50). Staff members indicated that due to financial difficulties, the skills development training cannot be conducted effectively. As a result, the Special Home staffs asked the MFM organisation to provide training for their children so that they can lead normal lives after leaving restoration.
